The School

A Door to Italy – Scuola di Italiano per Stranieri, founded in 2002, is the oldest established Italian language school in Genoa. It specialises in the successful organisation of every aspect of a language course, taught by experienced teachers including additional social activities such as guided tours of the city, visits to museums and different opportunities to enjoy the local culture and the local cuisine and products of Genoa. All the language courses are offered all year round in our premises in the heart of the town.

The school is located in an elegant and fascinating 19th century building and offers to its students large and sunny classrooms; a balcony, a lounge area with coffee corner and snacks, daily newspapers, free internet points with also WiFi connection, a furnished library and an information point regarding cultural and leisure activities.

School’s courses are officially approved by the Italian Ministry of Education. The school is member of ASILS, the National Association of Schools of Italian as Second Language, which is designed to guarantee the quality of instruction and professional level of services offered to students.

Genoa

Genoa, the capital of the region Liguria, is a city with a lot to offer to those who have the desire and time to discover its secrets and to experience its fascinating history and traditions, as well as a lively and ever-changing present, with a vision towards the future. The Porto Antico (old port) is one of the most attractive tourist places and one of the most visited in Italy and it is just a few steps from the school. Genoa’s old town is the best example of an entirely preserved medieval town in Europe and in the Mediterranean area: a large part has been declared a World Heritage site by Unesco. A stay in Genoa gives also the possibility of visiting the world-renowned village of Portofino and the marvellous Cinque Terre.

The origin of the name Genoa has different interpretations, but the most fascinating of them is that it comes from the Latin word janua, which means door...we like to think of the city as if it were a doorway as it has always been, where ships arriving at its port find a safe shelter and an entryway to the commercial streets of the continent. It can be considered a door to the cultures that throughout the centuries have created the city such as it is today.

Following this interpretation, our desire is that Genoa and the school A Door to Italy serves as the door to Italy for all people wishing to learn Italian language and culture!

Reasons to study Italian in Genoa:

- Genoa is rich in history and it is a town with centuries-old traditions of academic excellence.
- Genoa has a large international community, so foreign students feel at home.
- Genoa is much more affordable than other main cities in Italy such as Florence, Milan, Rome or Venice.
- Genoa is a jumping-off place for visits to Liguria region (Cinque Terre, Portofino, Sanremo); France (Cote d’Azur and Monte Carlo) and Tuscany.

EXTENSIVE RANGE OF COURSES
Italian Language and Culture, General Italian, Business Italian, Individual courses, Certification courses, Courses for Executives, Combined Courses (group+individual), Cooking classes, Italian and diving, Italian and sailing, Italian and photography, Cultural courses.

ALL LEVELS
Our programme is based on 6 different levels: from beginners to advanced levels corresponding to the Common European Framework of Languages (from A1 to C2). To assess the level each new student is required to take the entry test, both written and oral during the first day of lessons.

SMALL STUDY GROUPS
The classes are small to ensure that the students are given personal attention and the opportunity for self-expression.

LINGUISTIC MIX
Our students come from all over the world, usually in a group there are no more than two students of the same nationality. Different languages and cultural backgrounds make the group and the lessons very interesting and the learning process particularly fast.

Methodology

Language classes are aimed at developing the student’s general language competence and the ability to communicate in an international environment and in everyday situations, as well as at work and in social life situations. Throughout the course, learners expand their vocabulary repertoire and learn new grammatical structures which they practice in the context and, further, they improve their ability to communicate, read and write fluently and correctly. At school we use the communicative method, preferring oral communication but not disregarding aspects of written ability, focusing on the four language abilities (listening, speaking, reading, writing).

OUR TEACHERS
All our teachers are natives and university graduates with wide experience in teaching Italian to foreigners. They regularly follow practical training and refresher courses.
Apart from being able to share their knowledge and practical skills, they create a friendly atmosphere in a group, which contributes to a fast and efficient acquisition of the Italian language.

TEACHING MATERIALS
The school provides students with all books and teaching materials. Most of it is developed by our teachers and is continuously updated. The didactic material is rich and various. The official book is created and provided by the school: each level has its own book, which is supplied at the beginning of the course. All additional didactic material is drawn from newspapers, magazines, multimedia material and videos.

PLACEMENT TEST
All students, with the exception of those who have no previous knowledge of Italian language, take a written and oral test before the start of the course. This helps us to place them in an appropriate group. At any point during their stay the students can discuss their progress with their teachers or the Director of Studies. If their learning speed allows it, they can move into a higher level group during the course.

CERTIFICATES
At the end of any course, by a minimum frequency of 80% of the lessons, the school gives the certificate of attendance to state the reached level of Italian and number of hours of attendance.
The courses

A Door to Italy offers a wide variety of general and specialised courses, geared to the specific needs of our students. Courses are catered for groups or individuals and for people coming from different countries and with different purposes and are available all year round. Our Italian language courses can also be held in companies or at student’s accommodation. In winter season extensive evening courses are held for all levels’ students.

More targeted courses offer Italian for professionals, such as Italian for business (spoken and written), Italian for law, Italian for healthcare, Italian for hoteliers and for the tourist industry, Italian language of the Opera.

Course goals: improvement of general and sectorial language; development of anticipation skills; analyses on basic grammatical elements (connectives, conversational signals, verbs, substantives); full comprehension of oral language; general knowledge of Italian society, politics, history and culture.
Didactical methods are the result of years of experience and direct experimentation, developed with constant updating on linguistic theoretic and neurolinguistic.
Our approach guarantees a constant research of empathy between teacher and student.
Our methodology is not a close system: actually, we do prefer talking about flexible modality rather than method. This offers the chance of experiencing a training which is strongly shaped on the student’s personal and professional needs.
Learning techniques include audio and written texts. Listening and interpreting (simultaneous, consecutive, chuchutage), intense and stimulating activities, articles and cloze tests developing lexical skills, improvement of grammar in anticipating, textual coherence and cohesion analysis.
